

How can Co-production be used to create self-empowered and resilient communities?

Meet-up planning event

Date: Monday, July 15, 2013
Refreshments from 2.30pm
Event: 3:00pm to 5:00pm
At: Pavillion Theatre, E Parade Rhyll, Clwyd, Wales LL18 3A

Several organisations and individuals in North Wales have expressed an interest in meeting up to discuss how co-production can be used to create self-empowered and resilient communities. This is an opportunity to get together and have a 'big conversation'.

Co-organised and led by Pam Luckock and Fran O'Hara, our aim is to plan a Co-production Seminar in North Wales later in 2013, and create a model for regional events. Also, building new connections and identifying a group of people interested in taking the project forwards. Pam & Fran part of the 'Communities Can 2012' conference steering group and aim to build on work started there. In addition to their recent co-production workshop with Flintshire C.C. and the Penderels Trust, and work with Denbighshire C.C.

The event will be split into two sections, the first hour with presentations providing background and scope. The second hour will be run in a 'World Café' format, with participants discussing key questions, recording their responses on table-sheets, co-creating a strategic vision map drawn by Fran.

1. Purpose of meet-up?

- Define co-production and how to 'make it happen'
- Think about connection to compassionate communities

2. What will be discussed?

- Who should be part of community?
- What should be focus of seminar?
- Who should attend and speak?
- How could it be funded?
- How to structure the seminar?

3. Who should attend?

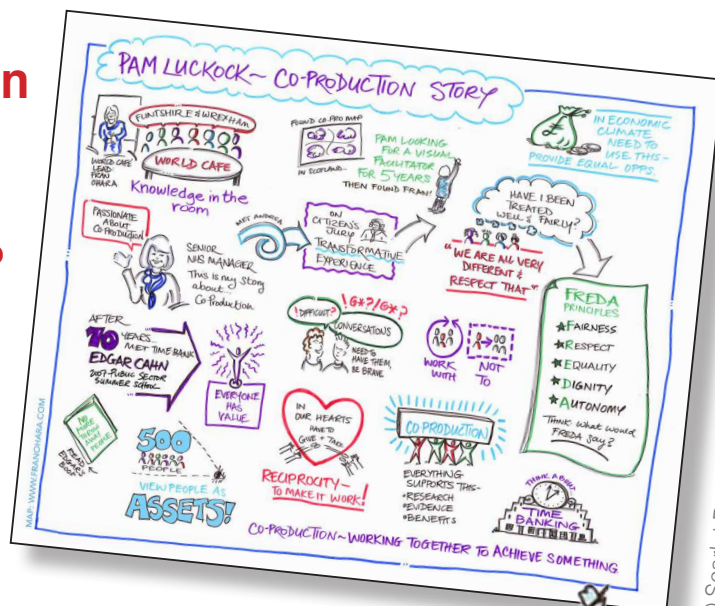

Our plan is firstly to involve 6 North Wales Local Authority areas of Denbighshire, Flintshire, Conwy, Ynys Mon, Gwynedd and Wrexham. We do wish to extend the 'meet-up' invitation to anyone who is interested.

4. Cost?

Free of charge. Craig MacCleod, Denbighshire C.C. are providing the venue and refreshments, thank you.
